ABOUT TOWN.

—Only three days before election day.
—Miss Belle Bovee is teaching elocution in Montclair.

—The stormy weather has delayed the work on Broad street.

—Mr. Louis H. Benedict is making an extended trip through the west.

—A Herald news stand suddenly sprang up in Glenwood avenue a few days ago.

—Why is Blaine like a Steinway piano? Because he is square, upright and grand.

—Our newspapers find a larger demand for the New York Tribune than they are able to supply.

—Who are the Independents of Bloomfield? The Echo answers, "The Butler supporters."

—The heavy rain this week has tended to dampen the outward enthusiasm of the political workers.

—Mr. Harry M. Hayes, and wife, of Middletown, are spending a few days with J. Cory Johnson.

—About 500 passengers took the 8:20 train for Newark on Monday evening to attend the Democratic funeral.

—Hon. Amzi Dodd, who has been traveling to the West, is expected home in time to vote for Blaine and Logan.

—The Sunday-school Normal Class during the month of November, will be held at Westminster Sunday-school rooms.

—Mr. R. S. Dodd has broken ground for a new hotel, on the site of his old livery house on Broad street, near the Centre.

—Mr. Geo. B. Harrison, our present representative in the Assembly, has been nominated by the Republicans of this district.

—The Dickinson Battery were compelled to walk from Newark on Monday night, returning here at 4 a. m. Tuesday. It is said when you consider the defeat that awaits them next Tuesday.

—The owners of the old mill property on Glenwood avenue, have caused a barb wire fence to be erected, which stands two feet from the sidewalk. It would be well for the Township Committee to have such an outrageous nuisance removed.

—Sportsmen are at liberty to shoot rabbits, quail and partridge, from now until January 1, consequently we shall expect to hear of occasional accidents, caused by the premature discharge of a gun or carelessness on the part of the sportsman.

—The Early Families and Early Houses, Puritan, Dutch and English," was the subject of a lecture delivered at the temporary, on Tuesday evening. On Wednesday evening next, the subject will be "The Church on the Common."

—The alarm given from the bell tower on Tuesday evening was a false one. The companies went as far as Glenridge, when they learned there was no fire, Wheeler's whistle having been blown on account of the proposed parade at Montclair.

Final Words.

When the light of the Sun
Is cast on Beecher,
It doesn't help
His sort of creature.

When Grover Cleveland turns to folly
And finds too late that this don't pay,
He drives away his melancholy
By telling Beecher what to say.

To vote for St. John
Is to be set upon;
To vote for Ben Butler is as bad;
So it only remains
To fall in with the Blaines,
And send Cleveland home to play Dad.

Way down in the dirt is
George W. Curtis;
And very much past
Is Thomas Nast;
While the man that it hurts
Is the great Carl Schurz;
And James Freeman Clarke
Is all in the dark;
And Beecher, alas!
Has quite played the ass.
So bury them gently
Beneath the green grass.

The voter who's hindered by water,
Should certainly get no quarter;
The voter who turns his coat,
Ought to feel it along with his vote;
The voter who misses fire,
Deserves to be hoisted higher;
The thing that is very plain,
Is that good men vote for Blaine.

There never was more of slander
In any campaign than this;
But Blaine comes out the cleanest,
And the other slots don't miss.

If Butler has his spoons,
And St. John could hold his whiskey,
Then Blaine would stay at home,
And Cleveland would feel frisky;
But as the case appears,
You may depend upon it
That Cleveland's hands are tied
With the strings of a woman's bonnet.

And as they say the ladies
Will have the final word,
To leave out Belva Lockwood
Would simply be absurd;
So vote for her, ye doubtfuls,
Who in this queer campaign,
Do not approve of Cleveland,
And will not vote for Blaine.

—Mr. James C. Brown, of this place, and Miss Susie DeHart, of Lincoln Park, N. J., were married on July 17, by Rev. H. L. Hunt, at Stamford, Conn. Mrs. Brown is an accomplished young lady and will be an addition to Bloomfield society.

—The Rev. D. R. Lowrie will preach a sermon to the Sabbath school scholars of the Park M. E. Church, on Sabbath morning. Subject of the evening sermon is, "Shall we know our friends in Heaven?" A special service of song will precede the evening sermon.

—The small boy who sings around town "Boiled clogs and stewed rats," are good enough for Democrats. The alleged eagle will swoop down on him from the banner one of these days, when the wrinkles are smoothed out of Hendricks, face and Cleveland's moustache takes an exultant twist upward.

—Election returns, per Western Union Telegraph wires, will be received at Library Hall, on the night of election (Nov. 4), and will be read from the stage by the managers. An admission fee of ten cents will be charged for expenses. Tickets to be had at door or of T. E. Hayes, at his store. There will be a refreshment counter in the building. Citizens, irrespective of party, will thus have a chance to hear the result of the election.

—Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Smith were the recipients of a pleasant surprise last Monday evening, the occasion being the anniversary of Mr. Smith's birthday, though which anniversary deponent saith "not." All of the members of the family to the third generation were present, with the single exception of the eldest son, Oscar, who is now in Mexico. The affair was a very enjoyable one, and a number of valuable presents were left with Mr. Smith as mementoes of the occasion.

Seminary Lecture.

Dr. Knox delivered the third lecture of his course, on the history of Bloomfield, in the Old Church Sunday school rooms, on Tuesday evening. The audience was not as large as the previous one, which was unfortunate, as the lecture was a more entertaining one. It covered the Revolutionary period and gave an account of the part which the people of this region took in the campaigns in the immediate vicinity. A review of Governor Bloomfield's life and character was also listened to with interest. Pictures of the old meeting-houses were on the wall. The next lecture will deal with the history of the Old Church, and will doubtless be of peculiar interest to its friends.

Wedding Bells.

The pleasant mansion of Dr. Davis was the scene of a brilliant gathering on the evening of Wednesday, the 29th. The occasion was the marriage of his second daughter, Miss Carrie, to Mr. Wm. H. Sears, of Montclair. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Henry W. Ballantyne in his customary happy manner. Miss Van Winkle officiated as bridesmaid, and Mr. Crocker, of Washington, D. C., as best man. The little Misses Haines and Richards preceded the bride as maids of honor. The ushers were Mr. Henry Crane, of Bloomfield, and Messrs. Romeyn Berry and Johnson, of Montclair. The bride was handsomely attired in white satin, with diamond ornaments, the gift of the groom. Mrs. Davis was becomingly dressed in gray satin. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers, the mantle pieces being banked with lilies, roses and ferns, and vases of rosebuds occupying every available place. The bride and groom received congratulations beneath a floral wedding bell.

Several hundred invitations were sent out, and, notwithstanding the rainy evening, the house was well filled.

The display of presents was very fine. A tall screen painted in oils, the work and gift of Miss Josie Davis, attracted much attention. Among the other gifts were a case of silver, a check for five hundred dollars, and the deed for a lot on Liberty street, from the parents of the bride, a silver tea-service from Mrs. Sears, carved wood hall-clock from Mr. S. I. Knight, several handsome paintings, etchings, engravings, etc., coffee spoons, a beautiful Hungarian vase from Mrs. J. Crane, a Dresden salad set from Mrs. Amzi Dodd, a set of coffee spoons from Miss Van Winkle, a check from Mr. Foster, many pieces of fine pottery and bric-a-brac, and other articles too numerous to mention.

Among the guests present were the groom's mother, Mrs. Sears, and sister, Mrs. Brantigan, Dr. and Mrs. Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer, Mrs. Pinneo, Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler, Miss Brantigan, Miss Pierson, the Misses Mills, and Messrs. Potter and Adams, of Montclair; Mr. and Mrs. Haines, of Elizabeth; Dr. A. Coles, of Newark; Messrs. S. J. and G. W. Knight, of New York; Mr. William M. Davis, of Easton; Mrs. S. Tuttle and daughter, of Paterson; Dr. and Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Jason Crane, Prof. Robt. Foster and family, Prof. and Mrs. C. M. Davis, Mr. Davey, Mr. and Mrs. Van Winkle, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Oakes, Mrs. Amzi Dodd, Miss Judd, Rev. and Mrs. H. W. Ballantyne, Rev. and Mrs. S. W. Duffield, Dr. and Mrs. White, Dr. and Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. G. W. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Puffer, Mr. James Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coggeshall, Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Richards, Mr. and Mrs. L. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Halsey M. Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Bourne, Mr. Warren Baldwin, Mr. and Miss Chabeier Peloubet, Mr. and Mrs. John Dallett and daughter, of Orange.

An elegant supper was served by T. B. Allen, of Newark.

A band of music stationed in the hall played acceptably and some of the young people engaged in dancing.

The happy pair were well showered with rice as they departed for an extended tour through the West. The good wishes which will go with this young couple to their home in Montclair will spring not merely from the fact that they are personal favorites but in wishing well to them we are wishing well to one whom we love and honor.—Dr. Davis.

Essex Co. Teachers' Association.

The regular meeting of the Essex Teachers' Association will be held in the High School Building, at Orange, on Saturday forenoon, November 8th, 1884. The annexed programme has been arranged, and it is hoped that a large number of Teachers will be present:

PROGRAMME.
9.15. Devotional Exercises.
9.25. Miscellaneous Business.
9.45. Discussion—History in our Schools.
Prof. J. W. Kennedy, of Newark;
Prof. Randall Spaulding, Montclair;
Prof. Charles M. Davis, of Bloomfield;
Prof. Vernon L. Davey, of East Orange, and others.
11.15. Address—The Teacher and His Work. Rev. W. S. Crowe, of Newark.

The High School Building is situated on Day street, Orange, and may be easily reached by either steam or horse cars.

The Republican Parade.

The streets of Bloomfield were ablaze with light last Friday evening, the occasion being a parade of County Republican organizations. The line was formed on Bloomfield avenue and the tramp began about nine o'clock, the head of the column being in Orange street. The procession was through the streets named in our last issue. Marshal Richard Handy was in command, assisted by Mr. Howard Hardcastle. In all the streets through which the men marched most of the houses were illuminated; so few, indeed, were the exceptions, that it was remarked that "there must be very few Democrats in Bloomfield."

In Franklin and Broad streets, which are graced with elms, now in the full glory of Autumn foliage, the effect of the colored fires was weird and beautiful. A feature of the occasion was that there was less firing of cannons than usual; we record this with much satisfaction. There were about 1,500 torch-bearers in line, representing the following organizations: Bloomfield Cavalry, Montclair Cavalry, Caldwell Cavalry, Frelinghuysen Lancers, Newark, Wilkinson Engineer Corps, General Bell and Staff, companies from Orange, East Orange and South Orange and Watessing, Montclair

Battery, Montclair Colored Troop, Bloomfield Pioneers and Engineers, The Plumed Knights of Arlington, Bloomfield Battery and Colored Troop, Caldwell Pioneers and Caldwell Battery.

The tramp was finished about 11.30 p. m. and the tired and hungry men were treated to sandwiches and coffee, at Mr. Harvey Dodd's shop, and dismissed. The visitors from Arlington, who were the special guests of the Bloomfield Pioneers, were invited to Dodd's Hall, where a similar collation was provided for them.

The whole affair was a very pleasant one, and reflects much credit on its managers. Those indefatigable workers, Messrs. N. Harvey Dodd and E. W. Sutton, are deserving of especial mention in connection with the arrangements for feeding the hungry multitude.

The Democratic Parade.

The Bloomfield Democratic Club sent out some very funny handbills about their parade which was to take place on October 22d, but was postponed until October 29th, on account of storm. On the latter evening it again rained in torrents, and it was again postponed indefinitely, i. e., for four years. The funny bill reads, "The line of march will be through some of the various channels in which we know we can be found useful." And so it was. On the evening of the 29th, they made themselves "useful," in devouring the sandwiches which had been prepared; practising on these so they would better understand how to fill their empty political stomach and satisfy their enormous appetite should they gain supremacy on next Tuesday. Others were at home, making themselves "useful" in taking care of the little offspring, cutting wood for the wife, and many other vocations where a Democrat is most "useful."

Westminster Society.

The first anniversary of the Westminster Society of Young People was held in Westminster Church, on Monday evening of this week, and afforded a very pleasant entertainment to the society and its invited guests. It has been remarked, that as an anniversary, this one was unique, as there was no formal address, and no long dry, statistical treasurer's and secretary's reports read, the whole ground being covered by the historian, Dr. J. W. Wilson, who was introduced by the president, Mr. H. B. Sheldon, Jr., after a few well-chosen words of welcome to the audience.

Of the historian's report it can be said, although the present incumbent expressed sincere regret at the resignation of his predecessor of six months' standing and active service, it left nothing further to be desired in the way of a full, concise, and entertaining account of the society, its constitution, its committees; of what has been accomplished, and of what it is expected to accomplish in the future. With the exception of this report, the evening was wholly occupied with songs, recitations and music. The vocal music was by Mrs. Canon, of Newark, who sang with a sweet, well-trained voice, and who was admirably assisted by Miss Grey, with the piano accompaniments.

To know that the recitations were given by Miss Belle Bovee is to be assured of their merit and interest. Her two unacknowledged selections, "The Vision of King Robert," and "A Legend of Brezeng," were finely rendered, and were duly appreciated by the grown-up part of the audience.

Prof. Piderit's prelude, interlude and postlude were quite up to his usual standard of excellence, and were well received. The evening closed with individual expressions of thanks and approbation, and with many wishes of future prosperity to the W. S. Y. P.

A western theatre manager, who lost his house in a cyclone, said what broke him up was too great a puff for the place.

A wonderful mirage was seen recently over Munjoy, Me. People were surprised at seeing apparently a brick house some six stories high, the colored bricks, the windows and all being plainly seen floating in the air.

The London reporters complain that they cannot find Mr. Vanderbilt's lodgings in the city. Wherever he is, they say, the quarter must be a very obscure one. We very much fear Mr. Vanderbilt is sleeping in some one of the parks.—Troy Times.

COME AND SEE THE

Stone Crushing Plant,

NOW IN OPERATION ON THE N. Y. & G. L. R. R., NEAR THE CANAL.

The capacity of the present plant is from 40 to 50 tons a day, or 1,000 to 1,200 tons a month. Without the delay incident to the grading, Broad Street could have been laid, rolled and finished in ten days. The stone used (Trap Rock) is the hardest known, and the success of the present work on Broad Street insures a larger outlay and a more economical working of the Roads of Township in coming years. For private roads and walks it is also a good thing.
